

Join us after the LTG meeting on 3rd December 2021 for our long awaited LTG social evening at The Old Operating Theatre & Herb Garret, London Bridge.

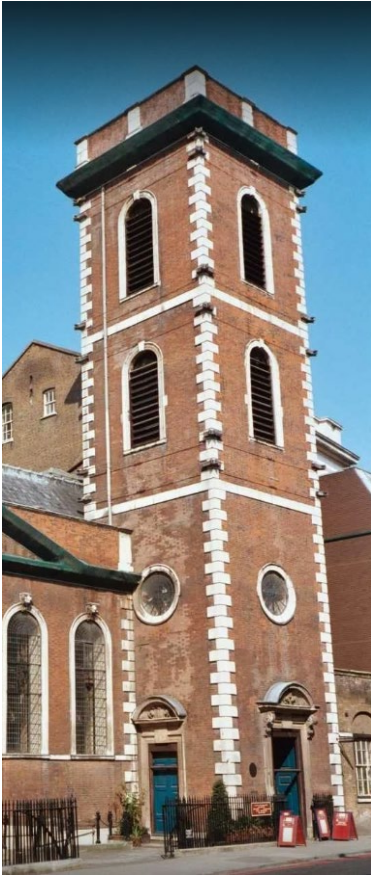

Starting at 6pm, we will meet at the foot of the original spiral staircase (restrictive access), and ascend the early eighteenth century tower of Old St Thomas's church. There in the attic the Old Operating theatre remains to this day.

You can enjoy a welcome drink, or two, along with Canapes (provided in individually served boxes). Whilst mingling with colleagues, you will be able to inspect the Herb Garret filled with old medicines of the days gone by.

Once finished here, we will be asked to gather in the Old Operating Theatre itself, where we will see and hear a demonstration of Victorian Surgery, in all its graphic detail – and there will be opportunities to use volunteers from the audience! The evening will then finish at 8pm.

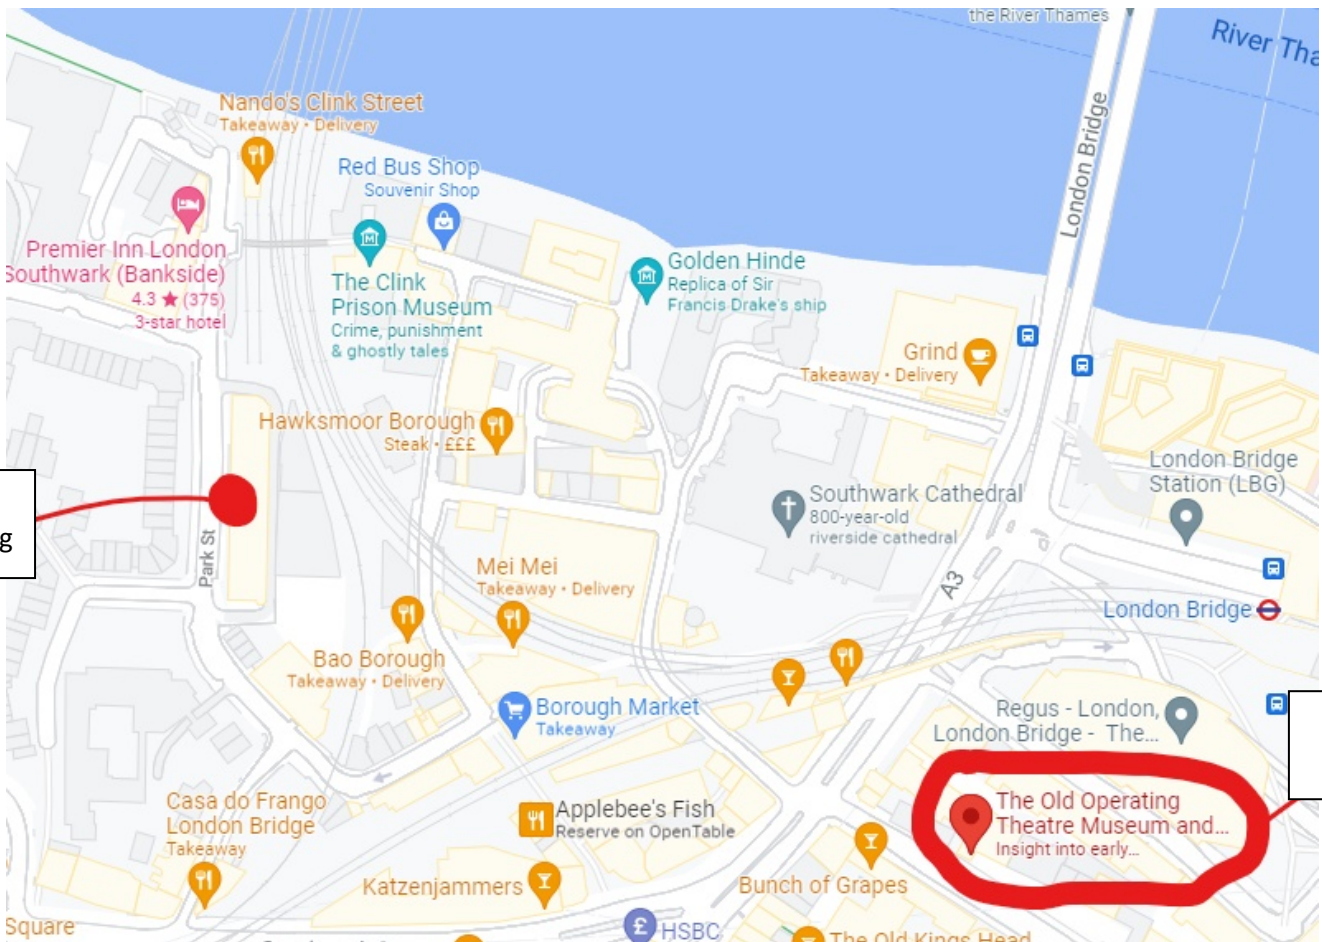

This is a free event for LTG members & guests and sponsors to attend. So please come along and celebrate our first face to face meeting in nearly 2yrs!

We have exclusive use of the museum at this time. Places are limited to 50 people, therefore registration for the event is needed to control attendance. Covid prevention methods will be in place, as per Government guidance at the time.

It is likely that most of us will arrive together following the LTG meeting, but if arriving independently, please see the map below for directions.
