

Free Seminar Morning

We got pills, they're multiplying: but, are we losing control?

One Great George Street, Westminster, London, SW1P 3AA

22nd November 2019

Why not treat yourself to a free event post-Brexit, if the sky hasn't fallen in? We have brought together a fabulous panel of speakers to present on drug discovery, fake drugs and anti-microbial resistance. If Brexit doesn't get us, then AMR just might!

Navigating the regulatory nightmare; the trials and tribulations of launching Avastin; threats posed by poor quality and fake medicines (most recently Zantac) and overuse of antibiotics – what an own-goal!

Why not join us and leave ecstatic?

For the full programme and to check availability, tel. 020 8725 2845

To secure your place, please book online - online booking

	GLOBAL A failure to address the problem of antibiotic resistance could result in: 10m deaths by 2050 Costing £66 trillion
--	--

'listening to Gary (Acton) present complex science is a bit like having your eyes peeled open and a light bulb switched on – I get it!'